

The font for Syriac is Segoe UI Historic, a Windows font. Estrangelo Edessa is an alternative, but it does not render abbreviations correctly, nor does FreeSans or Noto. I have found no Mac font for Syriac.

The East Syriac dialect is usually written in the Madnḥāyā (ܡܕܢܚܝܐ, ‘Eastern’) form of the alphabet. Other names for the script include Swādāyā (ܣܘܕܝܐ, ‘conversational’ or ‘vernacular’, often translated as ‘contemporary’, reflecting its use in writing modern Neo-Aramaic), ʿĀtūrāyā (ܐܬܘܪܝܐ, ‘Assyrian’, not to be confused with the traditional name for the Hebrew alphabet), Kaldāyā (ܟܠܕܝܐ, ‘Chaldean’), and, inaccurately, “Nestorian” (a term that was originally used to refer to the Church of the East in the Sasanian Empire). The Eastern script resembles ʿEstranḡelā somewhat more closely than the Western script.
